The excellence of reciting ṣalāt upon the Prophet ﷺ

One means people can use to find guidance, is to adopt the company of Allah's pious servants and act upon their statements. The words of saints are commonly summaries of both Quran and hadith. It has also been observed that the words of ordinary people do not have the same effect upon one's heart as the glance or single statement of a saint. This may be because these men of Allah are constantly engaged in pleasing Him, worshipping Him, and seeking His proximity.

As a result, Allah bestows special rewards and favours upon them, leading people to love them and give importance to their words. الْحَمْدُ لِلَّهِ The Amir of Ahl al-Sunnah is from amongst the righteous servants of Allah. Whoever listens to his wise words and adopts his blessed company never returns empty-handed. Instead, they attain numerous pearls of both knowledge and wisdom, and consider themselves fortunate thereafter.

The reader is wholeheartedly exhorted to read the entirety of this booklet entitled, 121 Statements from the Amir of Ahl al-Sunnah. They can draw immense benefit from the saintly words of wisdom found within.
